A priority is foliage management: the sand soil reflects the sunlight against the grapes and the team therefore guards against removing too much foliage as the foliage protects the grapes and inhibits the alcohol level through less sun exposure. Patrons can enjoy a glass of wine on the new veranda overlooking the vineyards and the site of the "walk to freedom". And cold days are no excuse to stay away: A huge fireplace in the renovated tasting room keeps you warm on the coldest of days (as does the wine, of course). "We see our wine drinkers as genderless and of all ages, people who are serious about their wine. Those who enjoy new wine experiences and like a specific type of wine that tells its own story." Enjoy!!!
