It is a low density metal, so you can achieve very slim line window frames which are sturdy and strong. With the superior strength of aluminium comes solid window frames that can withstand all weather conditions with no expansion or contraction during frosts or in bright sunlight.Aluminium Windows are SecureWe know that security levels for windows are usually near the top of the list when you’re doing your research. The robustness of aluminium offers superior strength to withstand any attacks.Aluminium is Long-LastingAluminium has a really long life-span without the potential to become worn by extreme weather or lack of maintenance. Aluminium can withstand any weather elements that the South African climate can throw at it, without rusting or rotting so your windows will look stunning for years to come.
